LONG BIO:

Charles Breakfield – A renowned technology solutions architect with 25+ years of experience in security, hybrid data/telecom environments, and unified communications. He finds it intriguing to leverage his professional skills in these award-winning contemporary TechnoThriller stories. In his spare time, he enjoys studying World War II history, travel, and cultural exchanges everywhere he can. Charles' love of wine tastings, cooking, and Harley riding has found ways into The Enigma Series.

He has commented that being a part of his father's military career in various outposts, has positively contributed to his many characters and the various character perspectives he explores in the stories. He has accepted the challenge to try to teach Burkey humor and has added this to the stories in an unexpected manner.

Rox Burkey – A renowned customer experience business architect, optimizes customer solutions on their existing technology foundation. She has been a featured speaker, subject matter expert, interviewer, instructor, and author of technology documents, as well as a part of The Enigma Series. It was revealed a few years ago that writing fiction is a lot more fun than white papers or documentation.

As a child she helped to lead the other kids with exciting new adventures built on make believe characters. As a Girl Scout until high school she contributed to the community in the Head Start program. Rox enjoys family, learning, listening to people, travel, outdoors activities, sewing, cooking, and imagining the possibilities.

Breakfield & Burkey – Combine their professional expertise, knowledge of the world from both business and personal travels. Many of the people whom have crossed their paths and are now a foundation for the characters in their series. They also find it interesting to use the aspects of today's technology which people actually incorporate into their daily lives as a focused challenge for each book in The Enigma Series. Breakfield & Burkey claim this is a perfect way to create cyber good guys versus cyber thugs in their award-winning series. Each book can be enjoyed alone or in sequence.

You can invite them to talk about their stories in private or public book readings. Burkey also enjoys interviewing authors through avenues like Indie Beacon Radio with scheduled appointments showing on the calendar on their website <https://www.EnigmaBookSeries.com>. Followers can see them at author events, book fairs, libraries, and book stores.

The foundation of the series is a family organization called the R-Group. They spawned a subgroup, which contains some of the familiar and loved characters as the Cyber Assassins Technology Services (CATS) team. They have ideas for continuing the series in both of these story tracks. You will discover over the many characters, a hidden avenue for the future The Enigma Chronicles tagged in some portions of the stories. The Enigma Beyond – Who Won the AI Wars will be coming in early 2020.

Fan reviews seem to frequently suggest that these would make film stories, so the possibilities appear endless, just like their ideas for new stories. Comments have increased with the book trailers available on the Amazon, Kirkus, Facebook, and YouTube. Check out our evolving website for new interviews, blogs, book trailers, and fun acronyms they've used in the stories. Reach out directly at Authors@EnigmaSeries.com. We love reader and listener reviews for our eBook, Paperback, and Audible formats.
